Office Hours:	9:00-10:00 M-TR in GAB 478, and by appointment
Required Text:	Statistics, 4th Edition, by Freedman, Pisani and Purves
Prerequisites:	Math 1100 with C or better grade or a passing score on the math placement test
Course website:	www.math.unt.edu/~nb0042

Grading: There will be a total of 450 points available in this course. The points will come from weekly homework, tests and comprehensive final. Home works are collected every Monday and Wednesday, except for first Monday. Homework is worth 10 points each. There will be two in-class exams (worth 100 points each) and the Final exam (worth 150 points). There are no make-up exams except for emergencies, and late homework will be worth half the total point if turned in within one week. If you miss an exam, you will receive a zero.

Test1Thursday, July 17Test2Thursday, July 31FinalFriday, August 8

The assignments must be stapled in order, easy to read, and labeled with your name, class, section number, and the assignment number. Don't turn in work that is messy.

Grading Scale:

90-100%	А
80-89%	В
70-79%	С
60-69%	D
0-59%	F

Comments:

• It is a very good idea to read about the next day's lecture before that lecture occurs because it helps enforce the ideas developed in class.

• You can discuss your assignments with others to develop a good understanding of the subject. However, if you copy your friends' work or copy out of solution manuals, this will not help you do well on tests and final. Please do your own work.

• Take advantage of the help available for this course. Use my office hours.

• Exams will be patterned mostly after the homework problems assigned.

• Evaluation: This term, student evaluation of the instructor will be done online at http/evaluate.unt.edu. The website will be open from Nov 27 to Dec 15. Please note that completing this evaluation is mandatory.

• To students with disabilities: It is the responsibility of students with certified disabilities to provide the instructor with appropriate documentation from the Dean of Students Office.

• Finally, good luck this semester.
